TOBACCO FACTORIES BURNED BY INCENDIARIES

Band of Night Riders Apply Torches to Princeton Stem- meries.

DAVISS COUNTY FARMER ALSO SUFFERS BIG LOSS

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 3.—The destruction of the two tobacco warehouses at Princeton early Saturday morning by a masked mob of about 300 men continues to be the absorbing topic throughout the dark tobacco district. Mott Ayres, State Fire Marshal, this afternoon began his official investigation proceedings, being behind closed doors. Only six out of twenty-five witnesses who had been summoned were examined, and their testimony was not made public.

The first reward to be offered was that of $200 by the Christian county branch of the Planters' Protective Association. The resolutions offering the reward are lengthy, and condemn in the strongest terms the outrage at Princeton, and call on the association members in other counties to follow the example in offering rewards and doing all in their power to apprehend and convict the guilty parties. They reaffirm their allegiance and belief in the farmers' association, and reiterate themselves to a relentless war upon the trusts.

Princeton, Ky., December 1.—At 1 o'clock this morning a band of night riders, between 200 and 300 men, rode into town and burned the tobacco factories of John Orr and J. A. Stenger. The loss on both is estimated at $55,000. Three hundred thousand pounds of tobacco were destroyed.

Orr is the agent of the Imperial Tobacco Company, and Stenger is agent for Tom Gallagher, the Irish tobacco king. Both are said to be allies of the American Tobacco Company, against which the dark tobacco growers of Kentucky are alleged to have been waging war. 'At Orr's' factory the torch was applied, but at Stenger's the building was blown up with dynamite and the ruins fired. The marauders worked with the utmost system. All wore black masks and a white handkerchief pinned to the left shoulder to identify each other in the dark.

Immediately on their arrival they took possession of the telephone office, and went to the telephone exchange, where they took the young lady operators in charge and shut up the exchange. Having cut off all communication with the outside, they took possession of the police station and held the Town Marshal and night policeman in custody until they left town.

They took charge of the waterworks, placating guards over the pumping station, so that no effort could be made to put out the fire.

All this was done before the citizens were aware that the town had been invaded, but these precautions having been taken the invaders rode through the streets, shooting out the windows of the post office on the way, and were soon at the factories they had doomed to destruction. Citizens aroused by the shooting were warned to stay indoors, and most of them obeyed the injunction. The Orr factory was fired first, and when the flames had a good start the marauders started for the Stenger concern. Mr. Orr was in his office when the raid was made and was put under guard and sent to his home with warning to stay there.

At the Stenger factory the mob evidently pressed for time wasted none, but put dynamite under the building and blew it into the air. Stopping only long enough to see that the ruins were well fired and that the flames of both houses were beyond control, the night riders hurried away in all directions. Four dwellings near the Orr factory were badly damaged and a coal office and two stables near the Stenger factory burned down.

After the men left town a message was sent to Hopkinsville and 75 citizens formed a guard around the factories, fearing that the mob would pay them a visit and burn their stocks of tobacco.

At 7 o'clock this morning the Sheriff of Lyon County arrived with five men heavily armed. It was at first proposed to raise a posse and pursue the marauders, but this was abandoned as it was considered too late for such action.

There was about 150,000 pounds of tobacco in each warehouse, and all of it was burned.

A few weeks ago tobacco barns at Fredonia, Kuttawa and Edenville, in Lyon County, were dynamited.

It is believed here that the raid is part of the fight of the tobacco growers on the American Tobacco Company, but it is not known that any person connected with the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association was in the crowd that made the raid.

The entire loss on account of the raid is figured conservatively at $55,000. Orr's loss is $15,000 on building and $40,000 on tobacco, while Stenger's is $30,000 on building and $6,000 on tobacco.

The loss on surrounding property is estimated at $5,000. The factories burned are along the line of the Illinois Central railroad, and it became known today that the whole crew of a freight train on that road were unwilling witnesses of the destruction of the property. The freight was passing just as the night riders came up, and the latter, fearing the trainmen would give the alarm if allowed to leave, took them from the train at the points of their guns and lined them up under guard, and held them there until both buildings were destroyed.

All the railroad employees in the yard were threatened with death if they interfered in any way with the raiders. When the freight train was allowed to depart it was followed by a volley from the detachment of raiders who had acted as their guard. The freight was bound for Evansville, Ind.

INCENDIARIES IN DAVISS COUNTY

Owensboro, Ky., Dec. 3.—James Wilson, the largest tobacco grower in the county, lost $10,000 by the burning of his barn and its contents last night at 9 o'clock. It contained twenty-nine mules and three horses, fifty tons of hay, 500 bushels of shelled corn and 200 bushels of oats. There was no insurance. Wilson had a barn on the same farm filled with 150,000 pounds of tobacco, part of which belonged to tenants.

Wilson is not a member of the American Society of Equity, and would not pledge his tobacco to it, and he had sold on Saturday to the American Tobacco Company.

Bloodhounds were procured and followed tracks to the road, where the incendiary is supposed to have driven off in a buggy. There is great indignation in the city and vicinity county. President Dunn and Secretary Taylor of the A. S. of E. denounces the crime most bitterly.

Arm Broken.

On last Wednesday evening while engaged in storing tobacco in the barn of Mr. Ed. Oglesby, Benjamin Miller, son of Mr. John Miller, sustained a broken arm. The young man was standing on a pier when it broke, letting him fall to the ground, a distance of several feet.

The Christmas Trade.

A large Christmas trade is being anticipated by the merchants of Cloverport. They express the opinion that the coming holiday trade will be the heaviest in years and are preparing for it accordingly.

Dies in San Francisco.

St. Louis, Dec. 1.—A telegram from San Francisco announces the death yesterday of W. W. Polk, a noted contractor and builder, born in 1837 near Georgetown, Ky. Mr. Polk came to St. Louis in 1873, after following his vocation in Georgetown, Ky., Jeffersonville, Ind., and Cincinnati. He was president of the Old Mechanics' Exchange, St. Louis, and in the early eighties was a Democratic candidate for Congress.

About three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Polk visited in Cloverport, being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Keith. In April their residence was destroyed by the earthquake in San Francisco, and in June Mrs. Polk died. Both leave many relatives in this part of the State.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Another Effort To Se- cure Them For The City Is Being Made.

The matter of electric lights for Cloverport has been taken up by the Cloverport Water, Light and Ice Co. with a view to installing a plant. A canvass of the business houses and residences will be made to ascertain the number of lights that can be counted upon from these sources.

At the regular meeting of the city council last night the matter of furnishing the city with lights was taken up with a representative of the company. The council agreed to pay annually $600 for lighting the city's streets.

The citizens should manifest interest in their power to help in securing lights for the town. It is not a matter of one individual or a company of individuals profiting by the success of the project, but the predominating thought should be that the city needs electric lights and then lend your influence to the end that the enterprise will be a success.

JARBOE-BOWNE.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Jarboe announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Wilson, to Mr. Edward Bowne. The marriage will take place at home, on the Saturday of Saturday, December the fifteenth, at three o'clock.

BISHOP CARTER

Preaches Excellent Ser- mon at Baptist Church Sunday Afternoon.

Bishop Thomas C. Carter, of Chattanooga, Tenn., preached at the Baptist church Sunday at 2:30 p. m. His theme was "The Friend That Sucketh Closer Than a Brother," using Proverbs 18:24 as his text.

He pointed out that an open enemy was more desirable than "a milk and elder friend." The enemy served to keep you alert, to bring you to your best, and to develop to you who are your true friends.

The speaker drew a contrast between the friendship of a mother and "that of Christ, between that of wife and that of Christ, and finally between that of a brother and that of Christ. He showed that Christ could teach us and sympathize with us when mortal friendship failed. Christ was the superior Friend in times of temptation, in sin, in affliction, and finally in the hour of death. The sermon abounded in historic and classic illustrations and withal was a very fine discourse.

THE REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The revival meetings at the Baptist church are causing much interest to be taken in the cause of religion. Rev. Compton is delivering some excellent discourses and his congregations are loud in praise of him as a revivalist. His discourse on Sunday morning was exceptionally fine.

The meetings will probably continue throughout the week.

Leg Broken.

Wallace Mattingly suffered a severe injury at the skating rink on last Friday night. While skating he lost his balance, and in the fall his left leg was broken just above the ankle. The boy was taken to the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Benjamin Ridgway, where he is now getting along nicely.

Willet, of Ekron, and he made some very beautiful and touching remarks of her life. The interment was in the Cedar Hill cemetery.

Bishop Carter preached in the forenoon also, in the house where the services are for the present being held.

Will Be Located at Tar Springs—Bishop Car- ter Decides.

The location of the proposed Training School for boys and girls, which has been under discussion for some time, will be at the Tar Springs. The plans for the main building will be submitted next week, when active work on the structure will be begun. This building is to cost $3,500.

The people of the community were quite liberal in their donations. Mr. W. J. Halliday contributed five acres of land for a site and $100. Foreign subscriptions have been coming in in numbers.

"BE BRAVE LIKE ME!"

And as He Uttered These Dying Words to a Loving Wife, Ike Adair Passed Away.

Ike Adair died at his home in Fordville, Ky., at 11 a. m. on Monday, Nov. 18th after an attack of pneumonia of ten days' duration. He was surrounded at the last moment by his wife and only child, his brother, Judge John S. Adair, and sister, Mrs. Mary Whitworth. He was conscious to the very moment of dissolution and told his brother that he was "making a great fight." He also spoke feelingly of the "glorious dawning" which awaited him. He was entirely conscious of his condition and only a few hours before the end made his last will and disposed of his earthly possessions in a businesslike way, which characterized his whole life.

The last words spoken upon earth by Mr. Adair were to his wife, the companion of many years, whose devotion lends an inspiration and a halo to the surroundings. Closely observing her lamentations and distressed condition, he beseeched her to "be brave like me." Mr. Adair's health had been bad for two or three years, and the occupation that he chose—that of a banker—did not conduce to his general health. In fact the confinement was so severe on his general health that he retired from active duty as Cashier of the Fordville Banking Company some months ago and devoted his time to pursuits less confining. However, the seeds had been sown, and the condition brought on by years of hard work and confinement had made their inroads. He was a devoted man for months and those who knew him best could see the strain under which he labored. Some two years ago he had a spell similar to the one which carried him away, but he rallied and recovered.

He never seemed to be his old self again after this attack and was poorly prepared for that which came two weeks ago. On Friday of last week his relatives at this place were notified of his condition, and Judge John Adair, Miss Dood Adair and Mrs. Mary Whitworth went to his bedside. His condition was thought to be improved, and on Sunday they came home. On Monday morning early the wren again told of his bad condition, aggravated by an restless night. Judge Adair and Mrs. Whitworth succeeded in reaching him before he expired, and were a consolation and a solace to him at the end.

The remains were brought to Hawesville, Ind., home, on Tuesday morning by way of Owensboro and taken to the home of his daughter, in the western part of the city at 2 p. m. of the same day the burial occurred in the Hawesville cemetery. Besides his widow and daughter, a score or more of the most substantial business men in and around Fordville were who stood by his side at the upholding of the little town. Accompanied the remains to Hawesville. In this they made exhibition of their devotion to an honorable and as upright young man for his sister ever knew or met.

Mr. Adair was not a church member nor a member of any fraternal organization, but that he certainly had hope and faith in the great future of his people and his family. A great throng of old friends, relatives, acquaintances, from both the high and low station, followed the great pioneer to the grave, and the tear-dimmed eyes only gave outward expression to the pent-up sorrow within.

Ike Adair was born near Skillman, this county, thirty-eight years ago. He was the youngest child of the late Gen. D. L. Adair and Mrs. Sarah A. Adair, one of his city. When a mere boy in school he exhibited an aptness for books shown by few children, and it is told of him that when others of his companions were out at recess enjoying themselves in exercise so much loved by the youth of the day and young Adair could be found reading over his books. Such a business tact did he develop when a youth that he sold his first book at a profit. A member of the Leg's attire was a special act passed by that little body of boys if they were before him and related the age of twenty-one. Mr. Smith declared in so doing that his person was so bright a mind as Ike Adair, and with his natural business instinct, should be hampered by the law.

and that he intended to remove the obstacles, and he did so.

In his younger days Ike Adair did some exceedingly creditable newspaper work—notably on the old Hawesville Ballot and on one of the leading papers of Helena, Arkansas. Before he was twenty-one he was appointed postmaster of Hawesville, though the confirmation of this appointment did not come until he had reached his majority. In this position he served the four years under the administration of President Harrison, and no one will deny the fact that in that position he was not surpassed in efficiency by anyone.

In 1895, after he retired from the postoffice, he went to Fordville and organized the Fordville Banking Co., and with this institution he acted as cashier as above stated. The bank in a short time jumped to the front as a solid financial institution, and so successful was Mr. Adair in the particular line that he was engaged almost exclusively in the last few years of his life in organizing similar institutions in Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas, and at his death we are told that he held stock in no less than fifty of these country banks, not a one of which was anything but a success. As a result Mr. Adair, though a comparatively young man, attracted the attention of financiers and accumulated wealth in a remarkable manner. He was also the holder of much telephone property and owned the Hawesville electric light plant. Just what he was worth at the time of his death it would be difficult to estimate. In brief he was regarded as a financial genius, and his advice was often sought by older heads than his in matters affecting the solidity of financial investments.

Mr. Adair was married to Miss Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. McAdams, and he leaves one girl—a bright child of fourteen—Miss Marian Adair. She has been attending school at Loretta.

Mr. Adair leaves two brothers—Mr. J. S. Adair, of Stephensport, and Wm. S. Adair, of Texas. The former is in the banking business, while the latter is a newspaper writer of force and recognized ability in the "Lone Star" State. Besides his mother, he also leaves three sisters in this city. They are: Miss Dood Adair, the present postmaster; Miss Eliza Adair and Mrs. Mary Whitworth.

At the graveside the floral tributes were the most profuse ever observed at the local cemetery and came from various sections of the State.

The grief of the friends and loved ones of this gentleman was heart-rendering. There was a universal realization that a noble young man, a true father and husband, and an honest and sympathetic citizen had departed. Hancock Clarion.

"Twenty-Three" and Skidoo."

The use of slang by boys finds some excuse in unavoidable association with unrefined men; its use by girls is simply odious and a direct reflection upon the attention and tastes of their mothers. This is easily proven by inquiry into the sources of the petted phrases. Take, for example, two of the latest "twenty-three" and "skidoo." These have slightly different meanings, the exact interpretation of the former being "to the rear" and of the latter "scamper" or "flee in haste." The former has its origin in the race track, which ordinarily has only sufficient width to accommodate twenty-two horses side by side, so that the twenty-third is necessarily relegated to an unfavorable position. The use of the coined phrase, therefore, implies a knowledge of details of professional sport, the possession of which by a young girl is distinctly unbecoming. The second is a mere substitute for "skedaddle," itself of the origin and now regarded by common sense as exceedingly vulgar. Scores of like illustrations might be put in evidence; but these should suffice to convince a mother, teacher or even a comparatively ignorant girl herself of the desirability of seeking the roots of terms which she has come to regard as an evidence of smartness.—North American Review.

PRYATE CAR SMASHED

President Spencer of Southern Road and Guests Instantly Killed.

WAS A REAR-END COLLISION

Two Fast Passenger Trains Wrecked Near Lynchburg, Prominent Men Being Among the Victims—Eleven Persons Receive Severe Injuries. Cause of the Disaster.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 30.—In the rear-end collision between two fast passenger trains 10 miles south of this city, Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railroad, and five others were killed, and 11 persons, the majority of whom are negroes, injured. Philip Schuyler, a retired capitalist of New York, was among the killed, together with other guests of Mr. Spencer. Only Mr. Spencer's private secretary, E. A. Merrill of New York city, and one of the three porters, survived the accident. The death list: President Samuel Spencer, New York city; Charles D. Fisher, Baltimore; D. W. Davis, Alexandria, Va., private dispatcher to President Spencer; William Pollard, negro porter on President Spencer's car, who died at a hospital here; an unknown person, whose head and limbs are burned off short, who is believed to be the third porter on the private car, who is missing.

Mr. Spencer's destination was Friendship, N. C., where he was going on a hunting trip with Messrs. Fisher, Schuyler, Redwood and Merrill as his guests.

The collision was between the Jacksonville express and the Washington and south-western westbound limited, both south-bound. President Spencer and his party, as far as is known, were sleeping when the collision occurred, and the probabilities are that all of them excepting Dispatcher Davis were killed instantly. It is certain that life was extinct before the flames touched them. President Spencer's body was burned almost beyond recognition, as was that of Mr. Fisher. The body of Mr. Schuyler was taken from under the train before it was burned. Two other persons, having been alighted only slightly. President Spencer's car was attached to the rear of the Jacksonville train, which was approaching when struck.

The impact drove the combination car forward and the express car lifted up, together with its trucks, and crushed the car 10 feet higher, the remainder of the car strewn with tons of baggage and colored passengers, who were pushed back like rats as the express car crushed the combination car. The combination car did not leave the track, and in clearing the track the express car was hauled to a siding a mile distant on top and in the "divot" of the combination car, "Jim Crow" part of the train, escaped. None of them were killed in being explanation. A number of them, however, sustained severe injuries.

The Jacksonville express had the right of way in the high and low engine broke away from the train and proceeded two miles, one of which was beyond Lynchburg, before the engine was brought to a stop. It may be that when he passed Lynchburg the operator gave Rankoon a clear track without noticing whether the rear-end markers were to be seen before he did so.

D. J. Maddux, the operator at Rankoon, who was on duty at the time of the accident, has disappeared. It is known that he was seen at the scene of the accident, but he has not been seen since. Though railway officials have made an effort to locate him.

A number ransacked the wrecked cars for plunder. Some of the passengers are said to have participated in this, and a large amount of jewelry and money scattered about the debris was taken. A porter was seen passing through a woman's grip and throw away things of no value to him and appropriate those things that he wanted. Washington, Nov. 30.—The special train arrived from the scene of the Southern railway collision, bringing the bodies of President Samuel Spencer, Philip Schuyler of New York, Charles D. Fisher and Frank T. Redwood of Baltimore, and an unidentified negro porter. The body of President Spencer was taken in charge at the train by a local undertaker. The body of Mr. Schuyler was sent on to New York and the bodies of Fisher and Redwood taken to Baltimore.

The Hennekeville Rheas.

"The rheas of South America is a remarkable bird," said an ornithologist. The male rhea battles out the eggs. He and not the female is the savior. He sets always in a quiet and desolate place, where there is no food, nothing to attract enemies, and as soon as the young are born the question is how to feed them. The rheas answer that question in advance. Three or four days before the eggs are to open he shoves a couple of them out of the nest with his bill and lays them in the sun. What is the result? The result is that the hot south African sun decomposes the eggs, and the father breaks them as the young birds begin to appear in the nest, and the flies settle on them and in twenty-four hours they are alive with warm, tender, juicy, delicious worms, the best food in the world for the nest of new born birdlings.

Gawick as Author.

Writing of Gawick's literary efforts, I suppose not every one knows that he was the author of such well known lines as:

Their cause I plied, plied it in heart and mind;
A fellow feeling makes one wondrous kind.

Or this again:

Let others halt the rising sun;
I bow to that whose course has run.

Or again:

Hearts of oak are our ships,
Hearts of oak are our men.

But I suppose every one knows his epigram on Goldsmith, "who wrote like an angel and talked like poor folk," an epigram that conveyed only half the truth, as (Gawick) would have been one of the first to admit—"London Sphero."

SCANDAL

In Connection With Russian Famine Relief Fund.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Prompt steps have been taken by Premier Stolypin to deal with the situation arising out of the famine relief contract scandal, in which a man named Lidzai and M. Gurko, assistant minister of the interior, are involved. The premier has called a special meeting of the council of ministers to discuss the affair. M. Gurko has resigned, when he presented his resignation, the premier told him he should not quit of office, but that for his own sake at least he must face the court.

The unhesitating fashion in which the premier is handling this affair will, it is believed, strengthen the confidence in and aid the cabinet, instead of injuring it, at the approaching elections.

PLANT BLEW UP.

Two Hundred Persons Killed or Injured in a German Town.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—Near the town of Witten, Westphalia, a "robust" factory blew up, killing and injuring many persons. The number of dead will exceed 50.

All windows in the adjacent town of Annen were destroyed by the concussion, and many houses were unroofed. No house escaped injury. The inhabitants of the immediate neighborhood fled in panic, fearing another explosion in the vaults of the factory.

Robur is an explosive of high power, composed of salt petre, ammonia, sulphur and other ingredients. It is not easily exploded by a blow, and it can be burned with safety in the open air. Its power is second to that of dynamite.

Battle With Palujanes.

Manila, Nov. 29.—Governor Curry of the island of Samar reports a desperate fight between Palujanes and volunteers near Abolito, Nov. 26. Pedro De La Cruz, an outlaw chief, was killed and 20 of his followers were wounded. The remainder of Cruz's band were dispersed. Cruz was second in command of the Samar bandits. He was recognized as a desperate character and had been fighting since 1904. He refused to surrender to the Americans. His followers believed him to be invulnerable. Governor Curry says that the end of outlawry in Samar is near.

WITH ALL HANDS

Canadian Steamer Foundered in the Recent Storm.

Wilmington, Nov. 28.—The coast-line steamer J. H. Jones, owned by the Crawford Tug company, a local concern, founded off Cape Cocker Thursday afternoon and all hands were lost. The crew consisted of 12 all from Wilmington, and the number of passengers is estimated at 16. The Jones, which plied between Owen Sound, Ontario and Montreal, was one of the staunchest steamers on the Georgian bay, and was commanded by Captain Crawford, a freshwater navigator of large experience. Part of the cabin, a lifeboat and two unidentified bodies have been found by Indians on north shore of the Christian Islands.

Major Markland.

Mayville, Ky., Nov. 28.—Major Matthew Markland, born in this city Oct. 5, 1838, died at Elks' home here. He served with distinction as private and after many promotions was placed on the retired list Feb. 23, 1891, with rank of captain, his retirement being based on disability occurring in line of duty. He was promoted to major April 21, 1904. His funeral will occur Tuesday at Arlington cemetery, Washington, D. C., where he will be buried with military honors alongside his wife, who was a sister of General George A. Crook.

Crooks Dead.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 26.—A special from Cleveland, Miss., says that in a pistol duel following a minor disagreement between Joseph Hammond, a druggist of Maple, Miss., and J. M. O'Bryen, a farmer of that vicinity, at the former's store, both of the principals were killed and Hammond's brother was shot and wounded.

On Company Indicted.

St. Louis, Nov. 29.—Two indictments, with a total of 72 counts, were returned by federal grand jury against Waters-Pierce Oil company, charging the company with having accepted rebates and discriminated in legal freight rates on shipments of oil, in violation of the interstate commerce law and the Elkins act.

Renounces Title.

Sheridan, Wyo., Nov. 28.—Hon. John Fallows Wallcut, son and heir of the present Earl of Portland, went before the judge of the district court and declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States. He also renounced his right of succession to the title and estates of his father in favor of his son, John Walker Wallcut.

Seven Soldiers Killed.

The Hague, Nov. 30.—An official dispatch from Dutch Guinea announces an encounter between a detachment of Dutch troops and a strong band of Alfours, who were traveling from Kamsu to Pakatak. Seven soldiers were killed and one officer and six men were wounded.

Patrick Case.

Olean, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Governor Higgins before leaving for Albany said that he had come to a decision upon Albert T. Patrick's appeal for executive clemency, and he had told no one that he would commute Patrick's death sentence to life imprisonment.

The Sonnet Writers.

The fashion of sonnet writing was at its height in the sixteenth century, when Howard, the French "prince of poets" in his own country and generation, wrote over 900 sonnets, a total which appears only to have been exceeded by Gomez de Quevedo, the Spanish Voltaire, who is said to have written over 1,000. Fortunately for sonnet lovers some of the best poets have been prolific sonneters. Petrarch, who created the classic model which later poets imitated, wrote 315. Chaucer is responsible for 322, Sir Philip Sidney wrote 108, Ronsard 88 and Dante 80. English sonnets were first written by Sir Thomas Wyatt (1504-42) and Henry Howard, earl of Surrey (1517-47), and the first appearance of a sonnet in book form was in a rare publication briefly known as "Tottel's Miscellany," the full title being "Sonnes and Sonnettes written by the Right Honourable Lord Henry Howard, late Earle of Surrey, and other." The greatest sonnetters of our language are Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth and Rossetti—London Standard.

Tiger and Vulture of the Sea.
If the "killer" whale is "the tiger of the sea," as the writer of an interesting article in the September Windsor has it, the orcas surely are the vultures of the ocean. In connection with whale catching the author of this interesting natural history article tells of the following incident: Some years ago a whaler in the northwest had killed a large whale and had the animal alongside when it was attacked by a school of orcas. They doubtless were half starved and, crazed by the scent of blood that extended away a long distance, probably followed it up the hounds, immediately attacking the whale. The men, with spears and lances, cut and slashed at them, inflicting terrible blows, yet despite this the orcas literally tore the whale from the ropes and carried it off. This certainly shows that the orcas, together with a very fair share of intelligence, are also creatures of extraordinary courage—Dundee Advertiser.

Always in Trouble.

A still summer's evening, quiet and almost sad. The trees nodded sleepily, as if hushing the world to rest. Suddenly the silent beauty was rudely disturbed. The clattering of a horse's hoofs broke the silence into a thousand echoes. A horseman dashed through the silent lanes, rage glittering from his eyes. He sprang from his horse and rushed into the still house and dragged forth Farmer Brown.

"Why, what matter, Squire Tampus?" queried the worthy farmer in sleepy surprise.

"Matter?" repeated the squire. "Why, matter enough, to be sure! Your great lubberly son Jack has run off with my beautiful daughter Maude!"

"Has he, really?" cried the farmer, now thoroughly awake. "Thee'rt right 'twill 'im a lubberly kidge 'is all doin' somethin' clumsy. Only right 'e went 'im broke a shovell!"—London Express.

Melting Fire Clay With Sun's Rays.

There is an apparatus which concentrates the rays of the sun from more than 6,000 small mirrors on a spot about seven inches in diameter. The heat generated is about 7,000 degrees F. Iron can be melted in less than a minute and the clay fused in about three minutes by this machine. Magnesia, one of the hardest things to melt, requiring a heat of about 6,400 degrees F., can be reduced to a molten state in twenty minutes. For the benefit of those who wish to forget the name of this instrument it is called the pyroclayol.

Protective Colors of Animals.

I seen to trace a faint clue to the connection between the protective coloring and the intensity of the desire of the fox to remain concealed and unseen. That this is a possible theory we infer from the fact that blind animals do not change color. Put a dozen minnows into an ordinary white wash hand basin and they will in a very short time be of a pale color. If over one no change passes we may be tolerably certain that it is blind.—From Dale's "The Fox."

Guess Again.

"I have a pleasant surprise for you, Miss Sharpy."
"Can I guess what it is, Mr. Borestone?"
"You may try, Miss Sharpy."
"Let me see, I guess you are going to tell me that you intended leaving the city?"
"Good night, Miss Sharpy."
"Good night, Mr. Borestone."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Nonotomous.

"Wealth has its disadvantages," said the philosopher.

"Yes," answered the man with sporting inclinations. "It must be very nonotomous for a man to be able to bet $5,000 or $10,000 on a horse race without caring whether he loses it or not!"—Washington Star.

Eruption Broke Out in Spots All Over Body—Caused a Continual Itching for Two Years—Doctor's Medicine Did no Good—Cured at Expense of only $1.25 and Now

THANKS CUTICURA FOR COMPLETE CURE

"Some time ago I wrote you for a book on the Cuticura Remedies and received it. I had used and bought the Soap, Ointment, and Pills. They did me more good than any medicine I ever used. They cured me of my skin disease, and I am very thankful to you. My trouble was eruption of the skin, which broke out in spots all over my body, and caused a continual itching which nearly drove me wild at times. I got medicine of a doctor, but it did me no good, and when I saw in a paper you said, I sent you for the Cuticura book and Ointment for my cure. If you wish, you may publish this. Your friend forever, Claude N. Johnson, Sayre Grove Farm, N. E. D. 2, Walnut, Kan., June 15, 1905."
